PUBLIC INPUT

Public input and involvement in the development of the plan is critical to developing a meaningful, appropriate, and adoptable plan in Northwood. Opportunities and methods to collect input from the community will be integrated throughout the process. Additionally, all Master Plan Subcommittee and Planning Board meetings are open to the public. A project website (www.northwoodmp.info) has been created to serve as a one stop shop to learn about the Master Plan, ways to get involved, and to review drafts.

Information obtained from surveys, public workshops, and other events will inform key areas of focus and the recommendations in the plan. All public input received will be compiled into a summary document.

Public Input Themes, Concept, and Values

Several themes, concepts, and values were identified during the preliminary public input process for the Master Plan update. This input directly informed the Vision Chapter.

Representative icons are included throughout the Master Plan to highlight where and how these themes, concepts, and values are reflected in the content and information explored in each chapter.
